"We are pleased to welcome the Good Uncle team to the Aramark family. As consumer dining habits evolve, we're continually looking for new ways to disrupt the marketplace with innovative services," said Eric J. Foss, Aramark's Chairman, President and CEO. "Good Uncle strengthens our ability to offer quality and convenience through services that allow our college consumers to order restaurant-quality food and have it delivered when and where they want it on campus."

Good Uncle, launched in 2016, utilizes centralized production and a fleet of specially equipped vehicles to deliver exceptional meals to the most popular spots on and off campus. Its world-class culinary team, led by a Michelin-rated chef, crafts a diverse menu of healthy and indulgent items that rotates frequently to keep the experience enticing.

Through a proprietary mobile app and drop-point model, Good Uncle has quickly established itself as a pioneer in the on-demand food delivery category and become a favorite among upperclassmen and students living off campus. By designating pick up locations, Good Uncle is able to deliver to multiple customers simultaneously, resulting in greater efficiency than traditional delivery options.

Good Uncle will operate independently, maintaining its unique brand identity. The acquisition complements Aramark's standing as an industry leader in campus dining, serving more than 400 campuses across the U.S.
