The company is also announcing a new Joint Venture with Carter Brothers, a leading Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) offering integrated facilities management (IFM), project management, electronic security, electrical and mechanical services.

"Over the past year we've reorganized our Facilities management team to combine our services and years of experience across industries to drive innovation and service excellence for all of our facilities management clients and customers," said Victor Crawford, Chief Operating Officer for Aramark's Facilities Business.

"The Carter Brothers Joint Venture is a great example of how we will leverage innovation to offer our clients an excellent option to help meet their supplier diversity goals," Crawford added.
